Here at Buxton Museum & Art Gallery we have a long tradition of working with and supporting artists. In the last two years, a major gallery refurbishment provided an opportunity to allow artists to work even more closely with the collections. With support of the Heritage Lottery Fund, Amanda Johnson has been our composer in residence; Richard Johnson has been our visual artist in residence and Gordon McLellan, a story teller and poet, has delivered a comprehensive community engagement programme at the museum and out in the landscape.

Inspired by their opportunity, and with the support of an Arts Council England Grants for the Arts award, four more artists have been able to create new work in response to the collection and the landscape.

Their various journeys of creativity and collaboration have raised curators' and artists' awareness of both the great potential and the challenges that arise when the worlds of art, heritage and gallery development collide.

You are invited to join the COLLECTION OF THE ARTISTS for a day, to meet some of the artists who have made new work for the gallery and to share and enrich your learning with us.
